1. Headline: Must be an attention grabbing so people will click on your message. As you start getting emails from others, you will find which ones grab your attention. Learning the audience of those reading these emails will also help.
2. Tracking: In listjoe and other listbuilders, you are able to track who clicks in your message, your unique url and how many actually take action on your site to see what you have to offer. Making the most of these conversions takes a lot of tweaking and testing.

If you only do a message once a month or so, you can truly see what kind of results you need to get. Which truly applies to any business you are trying to build.

Your Network Marketing System

September 20th, 2010 By: Alacia

One of the key ingredients of branding yourself is to make sure you customize your own brand for your network marketing system. One of the most traffic social website, Facebook.

Share

A funny story to think of branding is to go back to the Baroque or Biblical times...

Are you showing off like being bald headed or dressing fancy as a bearded lady?

We tend to look to society and see if everyone else is also going bald headed or bearded. Or is it due to just being rubbed raw. Think of the baby's bald spot... or is due to heredity? Or simply do it to yourself? Sometimes these looks can also show physical signs of distress...

So go back to those old times when they wore wigs, the elaborate ones that really showed authority. Treat yourself well enough so you can show authority.

Having a branded site on Facebook can show authority in your business. Be sure to make it look like it's how you want your business represented.

Take a look at a reasonably priced custom branded Facebook FanPage template that you can customize. Just simply click on the image blow to check out Fan Page Engine.

How To Communicate To Others Your Internet Business Opportunity

September 27th, 2010 By: Alacia

Did you know there was a process?

Share

All successful entrepreneurs have a process of how they organize their content, products and marketing to maximize clarity and value in what is being offered. Just like speeches are organized, we have a tendency to process what is being said a lot easier if it is presented in an organized fashion. So to organize your thought process on how you can be successful in composing your content or communicating to others efficiently, then take a look at these steps each time you develop your own content.

1. What are you offering me? You should clearly show why someone should listen to you... in 3 seconds... or they are GONE! It can't be clearer than that. If you can answer how you are directly applying to your audience, you can win them over.

2. What? What does it DO for Me? Here is how you can get this result.... Tell them what it discovers for them.

3. How? Why should I believe you? Tell them the solution to what you are offering that doesn't make them answer... so what? Why? What is it going to cost?

4. What if? How do I get it? Now the closing time... Here is what you are going to do... RIGHT NOW... to make sure you get....

Be sure not to leave anything out so they will want to come back for more! So be sure to subscribe to my blog, so you can come back for more amazing tips for your internet business opportunity.

Tastefully Simple Review - Worth the Time and Investment To Be A Consultant?

September 15th, 2010 By Alecia

In this review of Tastefully Simple, we will look at the company, what they have to offer along with their compensation plan on what it takes to be successful in becoming a consultant.

Share

Tastefully Simple began in 1995 by Jill Blashack Stahan in Alexandra, MN. She created this direct sales company with easy to prepare foods. Since the company began, they have moved to the Inc. 500 Hall of Fame in 2005. They offer thirty types of gourmet foods that are easy to prepare and perfect for gifts or holidays.

To get started as a consultant, it is suggested that you get a starter kit for $170. This starter kit includes samples, displays, training, catalogs, order forms, and everything you need to begin your first party. As a consultant you can earn 30% commission on retail products that are consumable. Bonuses include ways to earn getaways to dream destinations. You can also become a Sr. consultant when you have one active member making $400 per quarter. The Team Leader position is when you have three active members that are making $400 per quarter. At this level you can begin to build residual sales of earning five percent of your team sales.

This looks like a fun opportunity if you love the kitchen and love having parties. The time involved is a ten to fifteen minutes preparation time and the couple hours for the parties. The hostess can also receive ten percent rewards on sales made at the party which the company pays for. The rewards the hostess get can also pay for a starter kit to start the business.

This opportunity may work if you are dedicated to building it offline in a well populated area to continue to have parties scheduled regularly. This may also not be an opportunity if you are looking for a huge residual income. Looking to succeed in any mlm business, you need to learn duplicatable skills from a proven leader. Be sure to look at all the facts, options, compensation, and training to be successful. It is best to learn from the corporate offices and other successful consultants to help you make an opinion that is ethical.

Most get in this industry to build residual income, and you need to look a the right combination of compensation and company to take you to that level. Find a leader that uses a system that your team can follow as well. Showing that people will join you and not just a specific company will also display your business in a new level. Be dedicated and you can do what ever you put your mind toward. See how an attraction marketing system will teach you how to build a residual business.
